SAGAMORE

Weddings at Great Camp Sagamore

Built by William West Durant in 1897, the property was purchased by Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt in 1901. Alfred Vanderbilt and his family used it as their family's Adirondack vacation estate for over 50 years.

Today, Great Camp Sagamore is a National Historic Landmark operated by the Sagamore Institute of the Adirondacks, Inc., a 501(c)3 nonprofit. Great Camp Sagamore trustees and staff are dedicated to the stewardship of the property and to its use for educational and interpretive purposes. We offer daily tours as well as retreats, classes, and lectures on history, nature, outdoor recreation, and folk art and music.

Sagamore prides itself on offering memorable gatherings. We welcome a limited number of weddings each year to couples looking to share this unique place with their family and friends. We are happy to welcome you and your guests, but remind you that your decision to choose Sagamore for your event includes your commitment to its stewardship while you are here, preserving it for generations of guests to come.
